TRUMAN PLAN ON WELFARE IS REJECTED

Senate Turns To Next Scrap Over Government Reorganization

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—(AP)—The senate turned today to a scrap over President Truman's reorganization plan No. 2, after handing the chief executive a stinging defeat on his plans for a welfare department in the cabinet.

Both sides said the fight on No. 2—to transfer the Bureau of Employment Security from the Federal Security Administration, (FSA) to the Labor department—probably would wind up in an administration victory.

Democratic Leader Lucas (Ill.) told reporters flatly the plan would go through.

He got a grudging second from one of the leading opponents who said privately that the necessary 49 votes—the required majority of the senate—could not be mustered to support the resolution of disapproval.

Opponents of the plan have contended that the Employment Security would be more fairly administered in the FSA than in the Labor department. President Truman and others have said that the bureau belongs in the department most concerned with labor.

The senate was to vote on the resolution at 4 p. m. The resolution was offered by the executive expenditures committee which voted 3 to 2 against the plan.

The President's plan for a new welfare department combining the functions of health, education and welfare under a single secretary of cabinet rank was introduced last yesterday by a 60 to 32 vote—11 more than required.

Twenty-three Democrats, 16 from southern states, lined up with 37 Republicans to vote for the disapproval resolution. Only four Republicans—Senators Aiken (Vt.), Langer (ND), Lodge (Mass.) and Margaret Smith (Me.)—favored the plan along with 25 administration-minded Democrats.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio) who was active in beating the plan, told reporters:

"The vote of the senate is not a disapproval of the Hoover plan. It is a warning to the administration that plans submitted must be in substantial compliance with the Hoover commission recommendations.

Finds 'Unbelievable' World 4,500 Feet Deep In Ocean

SMUGGLER'S COVE, Calif., Aug. 17—(AP)—An "unbelievable world," 4,500 feet under the sea and filled with weird and wondrous creatures, has got its first glimpse of man.

The strange, luminous forms of marine life which inhabit the depths of the ocean yesterday saw a white sphere suddenly lower itself into their midst.

Inside the sphere was a creature they had never seen before—a man.

Armies of spiraling shrimp hurled themselves in a barrage against a window in the sphere through which the man was intently peering.

Their attack was in vain. They

Progress Made In Route 14 Project

Completion of 9.16 mile section of State Route 14 improvement was announced today by State Resident Engineer George Gonzales of Lisbon. The project included the widening of the route by four feet to a width of 24 feet from Columbia eastward to the Pennsylvania state line with application of a three to five inch bituminous surface. The work was done by the Kelly-Meyer Co. of Youngstown at a cost of $267,239.06.

The contractor has now moved to another section of State Route 14, resurfacing the highway from Salem city limits eastward a distance of 4.25 miles to the eastern limits of the village of Washingtonville.

The cost of this project is $60,630 with Oct. 15, 1949 as the completion date, Gonzales said. Work on the berm will be done by maintenance crews of the state highway, and traffic will be maintained during the improvement.

Seeding of the embankments, and erection and painting of guard rails on the new overpass of the Pennsylvania railroad tracks on State Route 7, are being completed this week and the highway will be opened to traffic this weekend.

The project 1.03 miles in length, included the construction of two bridges, with 290,000 cubic yards of fill, and a 24-foot concrete pavement at a cost of $449,612.68. The Carl Myers Co. of Columbus was the contractor on the job.

Effective Oct. 1 Three-Year Driver Permits Will Be Issued To Motorists

COLUMBUS, Aug. 17—(AP)—Motorists born Sept. 30 can drive for two years on new operator licenses before getting three-year permits. But if your birthday is Oct. 1, your new license will be good for only one year.

That's how it works out under Ohio's new three-year driver license law passed by the last legislature. Here's why!

Present one-year licenses expire next Sept. 30. About 800 deputy registrars will begin issuing new driver permits Sept. 6. You'll have to have them to drive come Oct. 1.

The new licenses still will cost 40 cents. But for some that will be a bargain. They will be good through Sept. 30, 1950, plus the time between that date and your next birthday. On your next birthday after Sept. 30, 1950, you'll have to buy three-year driver licenses costing $1 each. All three-year licenses will expire on the holders' birthday.

To get the three-year license system started, the state will let you use your new license for one year plus the time to your next birthday without extra charge. That's why those born Sept. 30

THUG'S WIFE SHOWS CACHE

Mrs. Bircham Leads Police To $7,516 of Stolen $62,000

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 17—(UP)—Mrs. June Bircham, 28, wife of the nation's number one criminal captured here Sunday, has admitted taking part in robberies totaling more than $62,000 in several states, police announced today.

Mrs. Bircham also led police to a cache of $7,516 last night. The money was found wrapped in a green raincoat, hidden in a hole about one foot deep on a farm near West Point, Ky.

Earl David Bircham, 45, is charged with the fatal shooting of Patrolman John Tennyson and serious wounding of Patrolman John Ross. His young wife was questioned by police for 14 hours yesterday.

Tells of Holdups She said the money recovered last night was part of that taken from the Centennial branch of the American National bank, Nashville, Tenn., on Aug. 1. Approximately $25,000 was stolen.

Mrs. Bircham also admitted driving the get-away car used in the robbery. She said the money was hidden the next day.

Mrs. Bircham said her husband also held up the Columbia Mantel Co., Louisville, on July 2, 1948. This holdup, in which City Alderman Joseph K. Detrick was wounded, netted about $15,000.

She said she and her husband got $19,000 in a holdup of the Nashville Gas and Electric Co., and $9,000 at the Sullivan department store at Old Hickory, a suburb of Nashville. She also told how her husband robbed the J. C. Penney store at Montgomery, Ala., of $8,000.

Mrs. Bircham said she stayed in their apartment while her husband pulled that robbery, and recalled he tossed the money on the kitchen table when he returned.

She admitted Bircham shot two Piqua, O., policemen on May 29, 1949, when they caught him burglarizing an automobile agency there. The policemen were killed by shotgun blasts fired by Bircham, his wife said.

She told police that on May 28, her husband tried to hold up a supermarket in Lima, O., but fled after firing a shot into the floor when he learned the money was locked in a safe.

Request Goes To County Commission

STATES HAVE BIG PAYROLLS

Total Employment Was 982,000 In April; Payroll High

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—(AP)—State governments employed 982,000 persons in April and carried a $197,000,000 monthly payroll. The Census bureau, reporting this today, called it a record both in numbers and in pay.

Compared with 12 months earlier, the number of jobholders was up 6.1 per cent or 56,000.

The payroll itself was up $25,700,000 a month or 15 per cent for the period, largely because average pay went up from $185 a month in April 1948 to $200 last April.

State governments now have "nearly half as many employees as the federal government, and about one-third as many employees as all local governments combined," the bureau said.

Their payrolls aren't, however, growing as fast as in earlier post-war years, it added. Schools—and mainly colleges at that—were said to account for more personnel (30 per cent of the overall total) and payroll (29 per cent) than any other single function.

Highways and hospitals together accounted (each almost equally) for another 23 per cent of state employees.

Michigan was the only state listed by the bureau as not having an increase in payrolls in the 12 months ended last April.

Ohio Edison - CIO Resumes Parley

Negotiators from the Ohio Edison Company and the CIO-utility workers union resumed talks today in Akron in an effort to keep light and power on in three Ohio cities.

A board of three federal conciliators entered the dispute yesterday and called for a meeting between Walter Sammis, Ohio Edison president, and Joseph Fisher, international union president.

Unions in three cities—Youngstown, Akron and Toledo—have voted 16 to 1 in favor of strike action if necessary, a union official has stated. The ballots were counted here.

No strike could be called before Aug. 21 since that is the expiration date of the company's contract with the Youngstown local.

The union has listed 13 grievances, among which the most important are work scheduling and bargaining on promotions.

High Tension Success

We've been hearing for years that many of our top business executives kill themselves with the strain of overwork. Perhaps most of us have felt this situation was just an unfortunate accompaniment of modern living about which nothing could be done.

But now comes a suggestion that this tense pace is neither normal nor necessary, even for today. Writing in Collier's magazine, Howard Whitman, neurotic drive rather than brains, energy or ambition that leads a man to punish himself with work and possibly "succeed himself to death."

Business leaders can amass plenty of evidence to support their contention that their problems and burdens have mounted to dizzy heights in the last two decades, and that their own tensions have risen in proportion. The doctors, however, decline to admit that most executives have to work as hard as they often do.

They insist that the men who do work dominate their lives are out of balance in some way. They say some have a distorted idea of life that allows no place for fun and rest. Some men simply don't know how to use free time and tie themselves to work to avoid boredom. Others are ridden by fears of failure, and competing executives, of insecurity they often can't define. So these high voltage individuals focus so hard on making a living that they forget all about making a life. They require their families of badly needed companionship and companionship. They lose the matches of riches of leisure, the fulfillment of spiritual wants that can't be satisfied in the grueling world of work. And into the bargain, they kill themselves. In so doing, they rob business of brain power, training and leadership.

Thus they defeat the very purposes for which they are supposedly striving. The doctors' advice to business executives is to grow up, to stop racing each other to the grave and grasping for the symbols of life instead of life itself.

Any sensible person would be likely to agree with Dr. Leo H. Barmetier of Detroit, whom Whitman quotes as follows: "The grown-up man has his prestige and security within him. He doesn't have to make a million dollars. He doesn't need the biggest car. His joy comes from being a person, a fully realized human being."

Is Thinking Punishable?

A question which is bound to have a long trip through the courts started on its way in a Maryland court. It is, "can a state legislate against a citizen because of his beliefs?"

More specifically, it asks whether one may be kept out of a job or out of office because he is a Communist. A Maryland circuit judge holds that he cannot.

The decision is of more than local importance because the issue is at stake in many states and in many localities where non-Communist oaths have been required of public employees. The decision still has a long way to go through higher courts before it is approved as the final word in law.

This judge holds that membership in any organization merely reflects a man's beliefs and that a belief is not punishable. An act is required before the law may intervene.

As a general rule, membership in a Communist organization involves the obligation to act but the Maryland court takes the attitude that until this in translated into some overt deed, nothing can be done about it.

"The law deals with overt acts, not thoughts," says the opinion. "It may punish for acting but not for thinking."

Fan Letter That Counted

When a Russian intellectual talks back to a Soviet tribunal which has called him to task for bourgeois inclination and gets away with it, that's news.

According to all the former reports, writers, musicians and others in a similar fix have admitted their error and thanked the judges for remanding them.

Ilya Ehrenburg, probably the best known of present Russian writers, is different. He has just written a book in which the Russian hero marries a French girl. His political critics didn't like this international tone and summoned him for trial.

After he had heard his book denounced, Ehrenburg, according to the report, said:

"The reader must be the final judge. Here is one reader's view: 'I have just read The Hurricane' and am very pleased to congratulate you." The letter was signed, "I. Stalin."

Then Mr. Ehrenburg went back to his typewriter and wrote: "Stalin is a very nice man. He is very kind and very intelligent. He is very good and very wise. He is very brave and very strong. He is very honest and very fair. He is very generous and very helpful. He is very kind and very intelligent. He is very good and very wise. He is very brave and very strong. He is very honest and very fair. He is very generous and very helpful."

It Doesn't Smell Like Perfume

Mention of a costly bottle of French perfume has come into the Senate investigation of expenditure gifts to high persons in Washington. The small which comes out of the investigation, however, is not that of roses or lilies. It has more of the odor of political garbage.

The president's aide says he received a number of home freezers as gifts from a manufacturer. He kept one for himself and distributed others to friends in high places. One went to the "Little White House" in Independence, Mo.

The aide said they were imperfect machines, not suitable for sale. The manufacturer testified they were "the best obtainable at the time."

Why the freezers were presented has not been explained satisfactorily. The whole thing, however, has a smell that all the perfume in France cannot conceal. Certainly it can't be hidden by a bottle which, according to the testimony, the carrier tried to bring in without paying the duty.

Lets Irritate 'Em

When Marshal Tito of Yugoslavia split with Russia last year, we were warned by our foreign affairs experts not to expect much benefit from the event. But it is clear we are reaping some advantage from it.

Russia's anger over Tito led to her withdrawal of support for his territorial claims in Austria. Thus one of the main roadblocks to an Austrian peace treaty was removed.

On the other hand, Yugoslavia's wrath over the Soviet-inspired Cominform campaign against the Tito regime has induced the Marshal to stop helping the Greek Communist rebels.

By closing the Greek-Yugoslav frontier and halting aid to the rebel cause, Tito has given the Greek government a big lift in its hitherto largely fruitless efforts to stamp out the rebellion.

If Stalin and Tito can just stay mad—as it seems they will—the western powers ought to rack up a pretty good score from this situation after all.

THE STARS SAY:

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE
For Thursday, August 18

This is a most propitious time for daring to try out original, novel or ingenious plans or ideas, but with shrewd calculation as to experiments with fresh ideas, procedures or innovations, perhaps unique, problematical and hazardous as well.

Rash, foolish or spectacular moves in this direction could bring loss, failure, even ridicule, with material loss of funds or prestige. However, there will be some in influential positions ready to cooperate in an expansive way. Personal popularity compensates.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, may find alluring opportunity for inaugurating ambitious moves, for making experiments in novel directions, or for bold strokes of ingenuity and tests of creative ability outside customary lines. And while there may be slip-ups, failure and curious reactions from novel or unique performance, yet there is balm for injured feelings, with substantial recognition from unexpected high places. The personal equation is strong, encouraging, vital.

A child born on this day, is exceptionally endowed with curious ideas, skills, notions, perhaps subjecting it to ridicule, strange experiences and adventures, yet is popular with influential persons and domestic cooperation may give balm to wounded feelings.

Guarding Your Health

By DR. HERMAN BUNDESON

FEW things have changed more in the past few years than our ideas as to how much of this or that food element is needed by the average person. This is due to the fact that modern research has enabled us to test the body's needs rather than guess at them.

Our changing ideas about what constitutes an adequate supply of calcium is a case in point. Little of this substance is needed for the body's vital processes. Since bones and teeth, which are largely made up of calcium salts, are fully formed in the adult, it was formerly supposed that grown-ups had little need for calcium-containing foods.

Today, however, we realize our mistake. Adults need calcium in far greater amounts than those formerly considered ample. There are three reasons for this. First, there is a constant loss of calcium from the body. Though the amount lost varies greatly from person to person, it is always sufficiently great to cause calcium to be drained from the bones unless it is replaced via the dietary route.

Extra Calcium

Secondly, any extra calcium is stored in the bones. This acts as a reserve in cases of emergency, such as the repair of a broken bone or the increased demands for calcium in women during the child-bearing time or for breast feeding. If the calcium is not present in these cases, it is pulled out of the bones and, in severe cases, there may be a softening of the bones called osteomalacia. On the other hand, the amount of calcium in the diet can be doubled without causing any difficulty, such as abnormal bone formation in the soft tissue.

The third reason for increased calcium intake is the fact that all of the calcium in foods cannot be utilized. Some of it is excreted

You and Your Government

Government Costs Up 56 Times Since 1913

The "good old days" before World War I were really good times, from the standpoint of cost of government and taxes. In 1913—before Uncle Sam started collecting individual income taxes—the cost of all government, Federal, state, and local, was about $3,000,000,000 a year.

Of this amount, the Federal government spent only $700,000,000, or about one-quarter of the total. Now the total cost of government has risen to $53,000,000,000 a year of which the Federal government spends more than $40,000,000,000, or nearly three-quarters.

With Uncle Sam taking this tremendous annual sum from the taxpayers, state and local governments have been hard put to it in some cases to scratch for what's left. Duplicate, and in some cases, even triplicate, income taxation has resulted, the Hoover commission found. But even that isn't enough; the states and cities are turning increasingly to Uncle Sam for "grants-in-aid." They could also be called Federal "handouts," for which residents of the richer states have to pay through the nose in Federal taxes.

About 40 per cent of all funds spent by local governments, and 15 per cent of those spent by states, come from Federal grants in aid. "There are few major public services which are not financed and administered to some extent on a Federal-state co-operative basis," the Hoover report says. It has urged general study and revision of all tax systems—Federal, state and local.

Why? Because the total cost of government has increased eighteen times since 1913. State and local costs have multiplied only seven times, but the cost of Federal government has multiplied fifty-six times.

Today government costs you, me and the rest of 140,000,000 Americans $382 a year; in 1913 it cost our $2,000,000 parents only $32 a year.

Fail To Support Imhoff For Judge

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—Two Ohio congressmen have declined to sign a petition recommending former Congressman Lawrence E. Imhoff of St. Clairsville for a federal judgeship, it was disclosed today.

Imhoff, now a member of the national appeals board of the Veterans administration, is seeking endorsement from all 12 of the Ohio Democrats in the house. Reps. Stephen Young (D) at large and Michael Kirwan (D) of Youngstown, have refused their signatures for the petition.

It was learned from one of his sponsors today that ten other Ohio Democrats have signed the petition or are expected to. The document is to be presented to President Truman Thursday by Rep. Wayne Hays (D) of Flushing and Walter Huber (D) of Akron.

The post is one of the three new U. S. district judgeships being established in the District of Columbia.

or lost. It would seem, in fact, that only about one-sixth to one-third of the calcium taken in can actually be used.

It is generally agreed that a child should have about one grain of calcium a day supplied in the various foods, and that the adult should have about this same amount.

The best sources of calcium in the diet are milk, and dairy products. Some is also supplied by vegetables, but the amount obtained from these sources does not approach that which is obtained from milk and dairy products. Hence, it is important for grown-ups and child alike that these foods be included in the diet each day.

Bliss Win 7-1 For 20th Consecutive

The hottest thing in Salem football, that's the Bliss Cardinals, who last night recorded their 20th consecutive win of the season by spanking last year's champion Salem China 7-1.

Bliss has not lost a game since the second day of the year. They got off to a poor start by dropping their first two outings, but have certainly made up for it since.

Wayne "Muscles" Russell again performed nobly on the hill for the Bliss nine, who held to China to five hits, while his teammates got eight off Dale Ritchie.

The victory gives Ralph Long's team a clean two game lead in the National league over the second place V. F. W.

San Francisco 49ers Feel It's Their Year To Win

Paul Brown and his three-time Championship Cleveland Browns are preparing for a highly respected visitor from out California way.

The San Francisco 49ers, fresh and confident after their decisive 28-7 win over the highly-touted Los Angeles Dons, are headed for Cleveland. They are determined to erase the two blemishes on their 1948 record by upsetting the Cleveland club, the only team to defeat them during the 1948 season.

Merchants Win One From Toots Corners

The Salem Merchants defeated Toots Corners 4-3 in a game at Dunn Eden lake Tuesday evening. They will play the Ellsworth A. C. there Friday.

Southworth Home To Rest For Season

SUNBURY, O., Aug. 17.—(AP)—The pride of Sunbury, Billy Southworth came home last night to rest. He has been given a leave of absence as manager of the Boston Braves.

The news caught Southworth's hometown by surprise. Most of the "Squires" fellow townsmen had thought the Braves' pennant winners in 1948, could repeat under Southworth's leadership.

Southworth declined comment on the leave of absence. He emphasized, however, to a newspaperman that absolute harmony exists among the Braves' owners, General Manager John J. Quinn and himself.

In Boston, Braves President Louis R. Fernal said Southworth has been unable to sleep well, has been eating irregularly and has been worried that his poor health might endanger the club's chances.

Southworth's assistant, Johnny Cooney, will run the Braves through the rest of the season.

Bert Bell Says League Will Not Play A. A. C.

CHICAGO, Aug. 17.—(AP)—If the National Football league and All-America conference bury the hatchet and match their champions in a post-season showdown, the winner will meet the College All-Stars.

This is provided in a new 10-year contract signed yesterday between the National league and the Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., sponsor of the annual all-star spectacle at Soldier Field.

Commissioner Bert Bell of the National league, however, emphasizes that the clause merely is "a protection to the Chicago Tribune." His league "definitely" will play no post-season game with any other league, Bell said.

This is the year. Sparked by Frankie Albert, co-holder with Cleveland's Otto Graham of the league's most valuable player award, and strongly supported by a roster of proven stars, the west coast aggregation have every reason to believe that the championship, which has eluded them for three years, may soon be theirs.

In the bitter rivalry generated between the two clubs in six games, no more than seven points have separated them with two exceptions. These were when the 49ers trounced the Browns 34 to 20 in 1946, and in 1947 when the Browns turned them over for a 37 to 14 win.

The series, however, show the Browns on top in five of the six contests, emerging with 14-7 victories in three contests, the 37-14 win in 1947, and the sensational upset victory of 31 to 28 last year which clinched the championship. Had San Francisco won that game they would have ended the season in a tie with the Browns. The question is still unanswered as to what the outcome might have been in a play-off contest.

Paul Brown has been working his men hard for the Frisco game to be played Friday night in Cleveland's Municipal stadium. The squad is up. So is the headline of San Francisco's win over Los Angeles on Aug. 10th, and so is a bulletin stating that this game, although unscheduled, may go far in deciding the championship—a loss may break a spirit, a win may provide a spark.

TRIBE TAKES ON BROWNS TONIGHT IN TWIN GAMES

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 17.—(AP)—Backed up by four straight wins and the 3½ game lead of the New York Yankees, the Cleveland Indians rolled into town today for a two-night doubleheader with the local Browns.

A double win for the Tribe would tie its previous win streak this year of six straight. A loss would be painful and a double loss, crippling, as the Yankees are playing host to the hapless Washington Senators.

Manager Lou Boudreau said Early Wynn and Satchel Paige would be his starting pitchers for the contests. Wynn will try to be the fourth Tribe starter to carry the 10-win class. Paige, who has not started a game since June 18, has won four.

A 5-0-0 victory over the Detroit Tigers yesterday enabled the Tribe to pick up a half game on the Yankees, who were washed out with Washington. They also moved into a virtual tie for second with the Boston Red Sox.

At St. Louis, sent down the river by the Tigers last year, had the pleasure of blinding his former teammates. He gave up only six singles and snapped the hitting streak of George Kell at 30 games.

The 36-year-old Benton, who now sports a remarkable earned run average of 1.57 for 92 innings, used fast balls mainly to earn his fourth win against as many losses.

"That victory did me a lot of good," Benton said after the game. "I've really been waiting for that one."

He said his fast ball was about all Catcher Mike Tresh called for. "Guess I threw only a dozen or so curves."

He turned to Tresh. "Thought you'd forgotten I had a curve, Mike," Tresh retorted. "You didn't need it, Al. When you can throw that fast ball where you want it, that's all that's needed."

Tresh, filling in for the injured Jim Hegan, probably will catch one of the St. Louis games tonight. The veteran receiver contributed a single to the 11-hit Tribe attack, scored a run, and played his usual smooth defensive game.

Chipping away at Virgil (Fire) Trucks, the Tribe picked up runs in the second, third, fifth and sixth innings. Lou Kretlow entered the game for Detroit in the eighth and gave up the final marker.

What proved to be the winning run scored in the second when Joe Gordon singled and Third Baseman Johnny Berardino poled a double to right.

The Majors Football Practice Called For Saturday By Barrett

FOOTBALL PRACTICE

One month from yesterday the Salem High Quakers will open their 1949 football campaign at Reilly field against a highly-touted opponent—New Philadelphia.

Already worrying over that one, Coach Ben Barrett today sounded the first call for his gridders. Practice will begin Saturday, the first day allowed under Ohio High School Athletic association rules.

Barrett plans to conduct two-a-day drills until the first day of school, Sept. 7, when the usual after-school workouts will begin.

Players are to report to the Reilly stadium dressing room at 8:30 a. m. Thursday to draw equipment and take physical examinations. Barrett announced that will include Freshman players.

Barrett has scheduled practice games during the next month with Canton Lincoln, Boardman, Youngstown East and Ursuline, in an effort to tune up his changes for the big New Philly opener. This season, the Quakers will not compete in any 15-minute pregame game, as has been the case the last three years.

The coach feels that a long practice game will do far more good than the 15-minute contests.

The 1949 schedule includes two new opponents—New Philly and Akron Central. Little is known about the latter, but Barrett says that New Philly has nine men back from a team that ranked No. 7 in the state last season. He has reason to fear the down-staters.

The complete schedule lists New Philadelphia, Ravenna, East Palestine, Canton Timken, Wells-ville, Struthers, Akron Central, East Liverpool and Lisbon in that order. Five games are to be played at home and the four county games will be on the road.

Although Barrett lost a host of good players via graduation, he still has a promising lineup of experienced players from the 1948 squad. Familiar faces missing from Saturday's opening drill will be Tommy Miner, Ed Bozich, Walter Ehrhart, Ray Yeager, backs, Jerry Smith and Sleepy Miller, guards, Ken Schromm and Bill Zeck, centers, Kenny Zeigler and Walt Hank, tackles, and Joe Alessi, end.

Barrett plans to conduct two-a-day drills until the first day of school, Sept. 7, when the usual after-school workouts will begin.

Order To Close Club As Nuisance

WARREN, Aug. 17—(AP)—The smoke has cleared away from the rhubarb over the Jungle Inn gambling casino and here's how things stand:

1. Albert A. Woldman, state industrial relations director, said he will issue an order later this week closing the club as a public nuisance.

2. State Fire Marshal Harry

J. Callan entered the club, made an inspection, and said his findings would be reported soon.

3. Gambling charges were filed against 20 men arrested in the Friday night raid on the Halls Corners night spot.

Callan, who tried to inspect the club Monday night but found it locked, obtained a court order to enter the casino from Common Pleas Judge Lynn Griffith.

Woldman said Acting Chief Robert A. Skipton of the department's building and factory division spent several hours in the casino with assistants. "They found virtually all violations we found in the Mounds club," Woldman said. "We'll issue a forthwith order closing the building as a hazard to employees and frequenters. They will be ordered to stay closed until they comply with the code."

The swank Lake county Mounds club was locked up on a similar order last month. All 20 Jungle Inn employees were charged specifically with keeping a room and building to be used or occupied for gambling, and with exhibiting gambling equipment.

Eighteen of the men were charged with three counts of gambling. Two others, arrested in the inn's restaurant, were charged on two gambling counts.

GOP To Delay Making Party Aims Statement

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17—(AP)—Republicans were reported in general agreement today to delay until next spring any statement of party aims for the 1950 congressional campaign.

Senator Taft of Ohio, chairman of the senate GOP policy committee, told a reporter that informal talks of leaders with Republican National Chairman Guy G. Gabrielson showed most sentiment is against trying to draft any set of principles now.

However, Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP floor leader, said in a separate interview he thinks the Republicans ought to make it clear where they stand on national issues well in advance of the campaign.

SALEM FIREMEN ACT AS HOSTS AT PICNIC

The Salem fire department was host yesterday for the meeting of the Northeast Central district, Ohio Association of Fire Fighters. More than 100 firemen from this section of the state attended the business meeting and picnic held at the Saxon Country club. Friends of the firemen swelled the crowd for the picnic.

National and state officers of the fire fighters associations present included: International President John P. Redmond of Washington, D. C.; International vice president for this district, George T. Slocum of Grand Rapids, President of the Ohio Fire Fighters association, Robert Lukens of Middletown, secretary of the state organization, Dwight Hinman of Akron and International Trustee John O'Doherty of Lorain.

Fred Theiss headed arrangements for the Salem firemen, which acted as a committee as a whole, for the meeting.

Severely Burned, Boy Drives 10 Miles Home

EAST LIVERPOOL, Aug. 17—William Green, 18, is in poor condition at City hospital today with severe burns received in an attempt to save a truck from a brick yard fire.

Two drums of gasoline exploded as he entered the garage of the McLain Fire Brick Co.'s colonial works at New Salisbury in nearby Jefferson county Tuesday night.

Apparently dazed by the pain, he left the plant unnoticed and drove 10 miles to his home in Wellsville where neighbors called an ambulance after hearing his screams.

It was his last day of summer work for the company, as he planned a brief rest before enrolling at Muskingum college in September. A graduate of Irondale High school this year, he had worked for the concern after school and the last two summers. He was employed as a laborer and kiln fireman.

Truman Nominates Ohio General To Post

Childlaw has been deputy chief of the Air Force Materiel command at Dayton, O. As top commander he succeeds Gen Joseph T. McNarney, who last week was appointed to head the Defense department's new national defense management committee.

A husky six-footer, Childlaw is rated a command pilot and combat observer. He has had nearly 6,000 flying hours, including numerous combat missions over Europe in the last war.

He was born at Cleveland, O., and is now 49 years old. His wife, the former Miss Lillian Marie Braun, comes from Cocomo from Cincinnati. They have one son, Ben Evan Childlaw, who was in the Air Force in the last war and is now a student at Harvard.

Discusses England

Rev. Charles Jack, pastor of the Boardman Methodist church discussed the "economic conditions in England when he spoke at the Tuesday meeting of the Rotary club in the Memorial building.

He said that general conditions in England were discouraging and the people there are still trying to recover from the wide bombing damage of the war. He said that the recovery seems to be moving very slowly. He noted the lack of refrigeration.

it kind of makes me dizzy." At 4100 feet the lights illuminating the area outside his window went out, but Barton dropped on down to 4500 feet.

Then he telephoned, "there goes a big white jellyfish. I never saw anything like that before. There's a little spot of light with a circle around it . . . I am amazed to see so many luminous things at this depth. The water is beautifully, unexpectedly clear, as clear as it was at Bermuda."

Barton returned to the surface without incident, and announced he would not attempt any further deep dives for some time. Originally he planned to descend to 6,000 feet. He twice sent the bathyscope more than a mile deep unannounced in preliminary dives.

He made the 4500 foot drop in 55 minutes and hung there seven minutes. He said he could see no sense in going deeper because the failure of the lights would prevent his taking pictures.

The ocean bottom was still 2,000 feet beneath him.

After climbing out of the five-foot, hollow steel ball, Barton said: "There's a peculiarly lighted fish that looks like Satan. And there's an amazing display of magic lanterns."

Salem's Improved School System Will Take Shape In 1950

$1,310,000 Building Plan Now Reaching Last Stages

The wisdom of Salem's voters in emphatically passing two school bond issues in 1946 and 1948 will be apparent when local schools open next month.

Overtaxed capacity will be alleviated in Salem grade schools, with more relief seen for next year.

Back in November, 1946, local voters passed a $750,000 bond issue to enlarge the school facilities. Already crowded, the schools were to become totally inadequate to cope with the expected number of wartime children coming along.

The bond issue, due to increased construction costs, proved to be too small and so the taxpayers dug down again last fall and passed another bond issue. This one was for $560,000.

Here is what has been accomplished with that money in less than three years:

Buckeye school, in the northwest part of the city, was opened and put into use last December. At a cost of $280,000, it consists of six class rooms, and auditorium-gymnasium, kindergarten, lunch room and kitchen.

Completely constructed and almost ready for occupancy in September are two similar school additions at Prospect and McKinley schools. Each contains four class rooms and a combination gym-auditorium, nurse's rooms, conference rooms and kitchens.

The Prospect addition cost $165,137 and the McKinley project $150,790, according to original bids. Extras along the way, however, have swelled the costs somewhat.

Reilly Is Largest

Now under construction is the largest of the four projects—the Reilly school addition. A case of the tail wagging the dog, the new addition will be larger than the original school. Consisting of 12 new classrooms, gym-auditorium, and other facilities, the new building will be twice as large as the old Reilly building which was built in 1928.

Work on that project, scheduled for completion in the summer and fall of 1950, is still in the preliminary stages. Excavating work has been finished and contractors are now setting foundations.

The cost of the Reilly job is set at $395,000.

Still in the planning stage is the Fourth Street school annex, next on the board of education's list. A new gym-auditorium will be constructed at that school later on.

When finished, the improvement program will give Salem an outstanding group of grade schools. Farsightedness and co-operation by the city's citizens and a hard-working board of education have made it all possible.

Rural Schools Set To Open On Sept. 6

The 29 county-operated schools will open their doors on Sept. 6. W. E. Roberts, superintendent of Columbiana county schools, said today.

The teacher situation is in good shape with approximately 160 to assume school duties of the teachers and administrators ready to assume school duties of the 1949-50 semesters.

Summer Schools

One hundred years ago, summer schools and special academies already existed. Summer school classes were nearly always directed by women; a man, so the reports of the day tell, would have felt out of place.

LOCAL SCHOOLS IN RACE WITH TIME TO OPEN SEPT. 7

Rushing To Finish Work At Prospect, Reilly And McKinley

"We're staging a race against time to be ready to open our schools on schedule on Sept. 7," Supt. of Schools E. S. Kerr said today.

At the moment, Kerr said, it looks as though all the schools will open on time, but it may be close.

With an expected increase in enrollment of from 150 to 200 children over the 1948-49 term, all the facilities in the Salem school system will be urgently needed.

The two newest additions, at McKinley and Prospect schools are causing the most consternation. Prospect's addition is all ready for school, excepting the installation of furniture. The latter is being shipped from the factory Friday, Kerr said.

The asphalt tile floor is presently being installed at McKinley school, and should be completed shortly. Then furniture (desks and chairs) will be brought in.

The old McKinley school building is being painted and redecorated now. Similar work at Prospect has been finished.

Work At Reilly

Some confusion is present at Reilly school, due to the construction work being carried on with the new addition there. A new heating system, including boilers, is being put in the basement of Reilly, causing some hindrance to the opening of the school next month.

None of the above problems apply to Salem High school, Buckeye, Columbia or Fourth Street schools, where there has been no construction work underway.

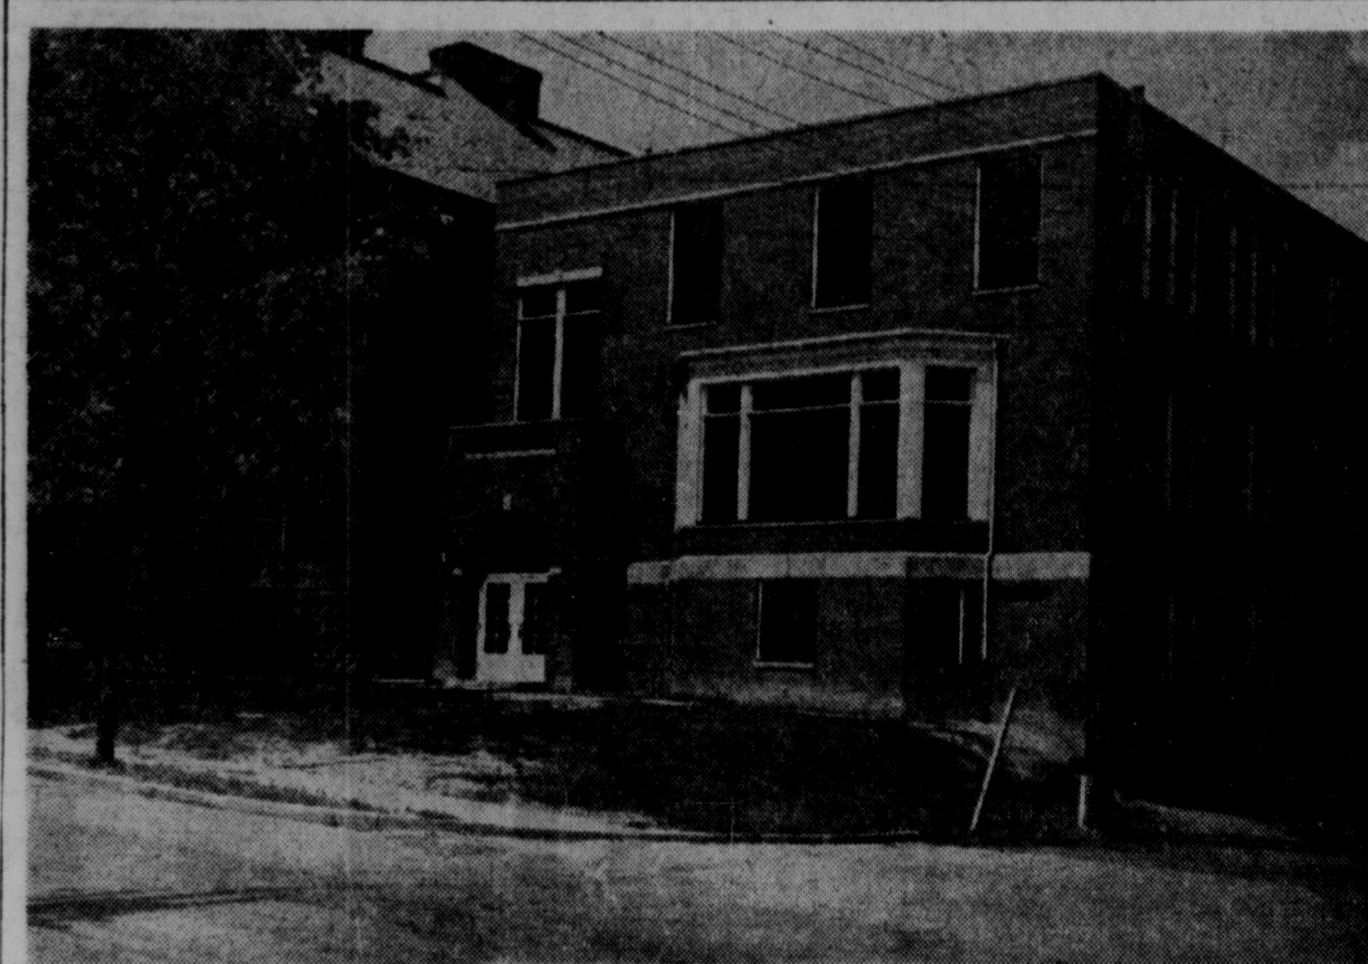

High School Principal Beman Ludwig, after working all summer to ready his school for fall occupation, is taking a well-earned vacation this week. Kerr reports that everything is in readiness there.

With the added enrollment (expected to go even higher next year) the board of education's building program is just one jump ahead.

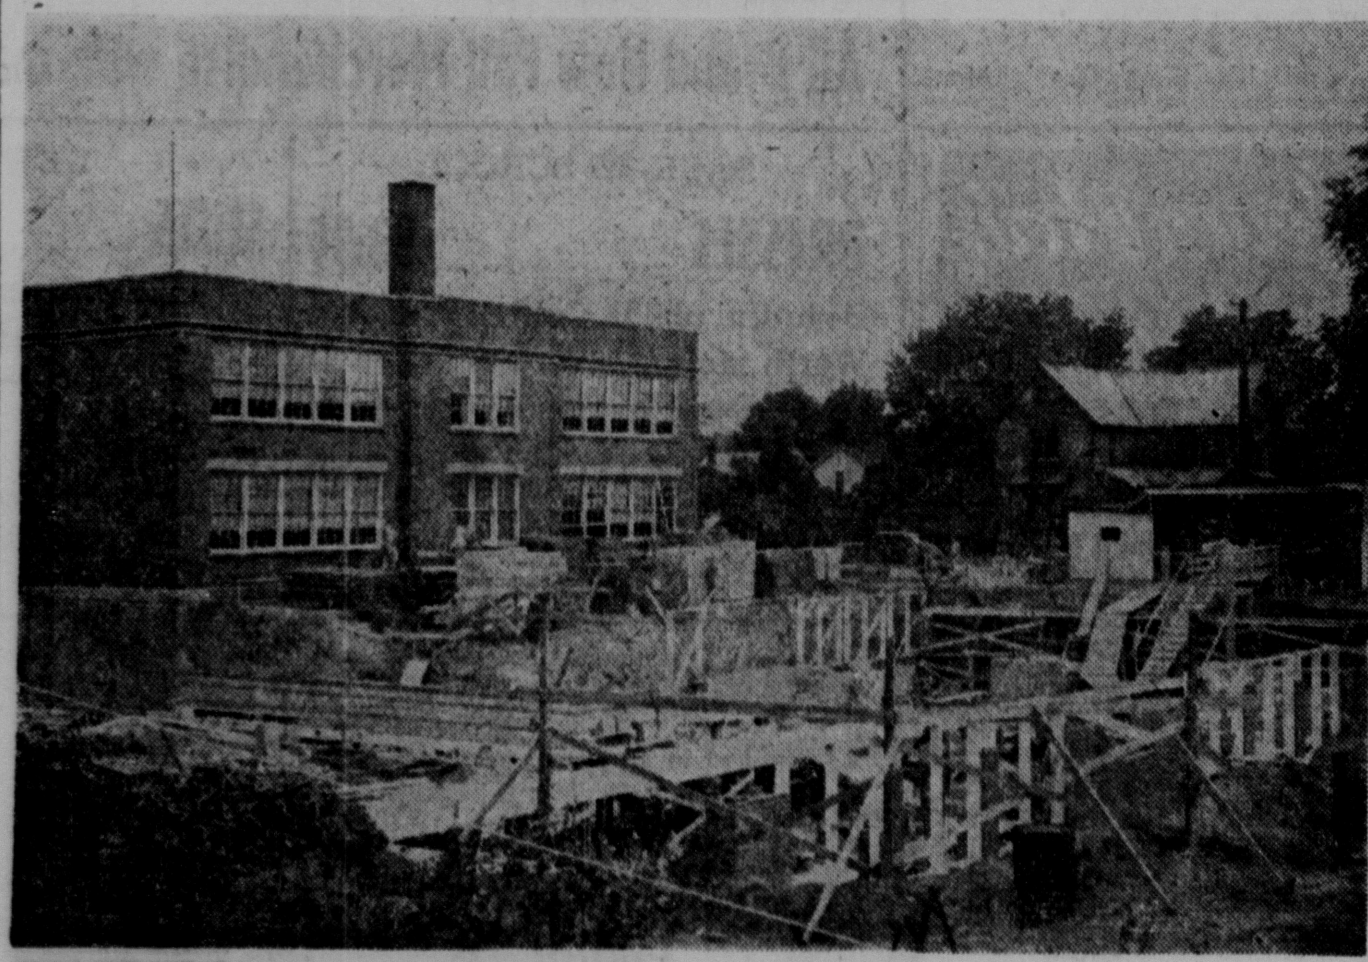

If the Reilly building is finished next fall, there will be no more need for half-day sessions, similar to those held last fall when Buckeye school was being completed.

No Substantial Drops In Enrollment Seen As New Scholastic Year Opens

By PAUL SHINKMAN
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—There will be no recession in American education when the school bells start to ring again this autumn, despite predictions that have been made to the contrary.

This is the consensus of some of Uncle Sam's top educators who have been making a survey of the prospects for the new school year.

Said Dr. Earl J. McGrath, United States commissioner of education, in a special statement to this correspondent:

"I feel that there will be no substantial drop in our school and college enrollments for the coming academic year. If there were such a drop, it would reverse a long-time trend that runs back half a century."

The commissioner went on to announce that statistics just compiled reveal that the number of college degrees granted this summer was twice the pre-war record, which was 216,728 for the year 1939-40.

McGrath pointed out that this post-war flurry of sheepskins was largely the result of heavy enrollments under the GI Bill, which reached their peak in November, 1947, with a total of 1,149,941.

Many of the enrollments were for the completion of college work that had been interrupted by the war.

The Veterans' Administration itself looks for a natural decline in GI enrollments (mostly in colleges and training schools) during the coming year, as the war moves further into the background and the 1951 deadline for such enrollments draws nearer.

The forecast is 720,000 enrollments under the GI Bill for the coming year, as against 974,945 a year ago; and 60,000 enrollments under Public Law 16 (providing training for disabled veterans), as against 75,725.

However, even here, it is pointed out that the prospective decline in enrollments may be stemmed by the reports of increased unemployment throughout the Nation.

The GI—man or woman—who has until 1951 to take advantage of the educational bill, is not slow to realize that an extra year of schooling is vastly preferable to protracted job-hunting.

THIS DIRECT proportion between unemployment and college enrollment reveals itself also in the case of non-veterans, some of whom are expected to extend their college education further than originally planned, as a means of riding out the economic recession.

The veterans have nowhere near exhausted their rights under the GI Bill and Public Law No. 16, according to United States Office of Education officials.

Of the 8½ million veterans who have been approved for education, only 6½ million have taken it. Another 6½ million are eligible for the educational benefits but have not applied. They have until 1951.

The fact remains that, despite the economic recession, more than 18 per cent of the American population will be spending most of its time on classroom benches after September 1st.

OF THESE, some two million will be in colleges and universities; more than six million will be in high schools, and more than 20 million will be in elementary schools.

However, the benches are only half the schoolroom picture. While educational experts have made it clear that they fear no shortage of pupils this year, they make no secret of that fact that they do fear—and expect—a continuing shortage of teachers.

This shortage will be chiefly at the elementary school level, where salaries are relatively low and physical effort is relatively high.

The number of new elementary school teachers prepared by the colleges and universities this year is still only about 77 per cent of the total 32,197 produced in 1941, the last pre-war year.

IN THE FIELD of high school teaching, actual over-production of available candidates is indicated in the fields of men's physical education and social sciences.

The National Education Association reports that in men's physical education the colleges produced about 6,000 potential candidates this year or some 400 per cent more than in 1941, which was not a normal year because of the number of college men who were mobilized.

In social sciences, 1949 pro-

HISTORY, GEOGRAPHY CLASSES AT JUNIOR HIGH WILL BE COMBINED

Along with the buildings at Salem Junior High school, the curriculum has also received a going over this summer and the fall football schedule has been stepped up according to Principal Loren Early.

Many of the teachers too have been brushing up on their subjects at various colleges.

Perhaps the most important subject change is that of combining the hitherto separate history and geography classes. This combination necessitates another study to keep the 7th graders with four subjects, so a class in general science will be added, leading up to 8th grade science and hence to High school.

Those interested in reading will find many new books in the school library.

Something new to aid Quakerette staff members is being introduced. All those 8th graders who duced about 10,000 potential teachers, as compared with 5,843 in 1941.

All of which adds up to the fact that the quest for knowledge will resume its drive with little, if any abatement in the nation's schoolhouses this autumn. However, there will be the usual shortage of teachers at both the standard and sub-standard levels throughout our elementary schools. There will be a much more generous supply of teachers at the high school level—particularly of you like athletics and the social sciences.

help publish the school paper will be students in an English class taught by the Quakerette advisor, Mrs. Lulu McCarthy. In this way the newspaper work will be more of a curricular activity than extra-curricular.

The football schedule for the coming year will be much more complete than last year, the first big year of interscholastic play at Salem Junior High school. Coach Roger Fitzsimmons plans to start practice shortly after school commences.

Also on the athletic side may be mentioned some new equipment for the grades one through six, including new basketball hoops for the playground.

Among the Fourth Street teachers who studied this summer were Deane Phillips at Mt. Union college; Mrs. Mary Schragg, Geneva college, Beaver Falls, Pa.; Mrs. Elizabeth Laughlin, Kent State and Mrs. Ernest Horton, reading clinic at Kent State.

Geography Beginnings

Geography was first considered by American grammar school teachers as a subject for discussion after supper, when some traveler was at hand. Not until 1827 did the state of Massachusetts, a leader in the field of education, make geography a required study in its public schools. Even then, geography readers were primarily used as a means of improving reading.

SCHOOL FASHIONS—1949—FROM KINDERGARTEN TO COLLEGE

THIS young man was determined to have his picture taken with the cherished ear-muffs showing! The corduroy hat matches the upper-front jacket. Both are right blue trimmed with navy. The navy overalls match.

FOR the kindergartner, a washable chambray dress is a perfect choice. This one illustrated features a tie sash and a deep hem, appreciated by mothers of growing children.

BROWN suede cloth is a perfect fabric for the growing girl's coat. Here we have it trimmed with leopard. The hat is velvet trimmed with an ostrich feather.

HERE is a corduroy jacket and a matching corduroy hat exactly like "big brother's." The matching corduroy boxer trousers, with a half-belt in the front, will give hard and satisfactory service. Striped jersey tuck-in shirt is a "must" with every schoolboy.

WHEN a high school boy selects a jacket that will give him tough wear and still guarantee that "sharp" look, he will select a corduroy sports jacket with patch pockets. We see it here with the popular hounds-tooth check slacks and equally popular bow-tie.

TO BE very well-dressed this fall, every high school girl will have a tweed skirt with a modified flare and a tuck-in jersey blouse. If she is lucky she will have a camel jacket, tailored exactly the same as a boy's.

THE college man knows he must have one dress-up suit and we show a navy blue gabardine in the long roll, double breasted model. The gabardine topcoat is moistureproof so that it does double duty in rainy weather.

PERFECT for wear on a date or for the big game of the season is this corduroy suit. Notice the string gloves, figured scarf, and the very new velvet cloche hat.

Ten Or More Countries Planning Antarctic Explorations In 1950

By HARRY W. FRANTZ
WASHINGTON—(UP)—The year of 1950 promises to usher in the most active period of Antarctic exploration in the present century.

At least ten countries are looking toward their territorial claims, scientific laurels or whaling interests in the extreme south.

The United States in the past year made an ineffective "sounding" of international opinion favorable to future "internationalization" of the 6,000,000-square-mile southern continent. Now the United States is reported to be planning a new Antarctic expedition.

Although yet lacking official confirmation, it is surmised that the new expedition would develop under the guiding genius of Rear Adm. Richard Evelyn Byrd.

For nearly a quarter of a century Byrd has been the chief champion of exploration and scientific research in Antarctica. The expedition would be concerned especially with naval and air training problems and scientific research.

Other Expeditions
Other Antarctic expeditions in prospect for the coming year include a joint Norwegian-British-Swedish scientific expedition, a French Antarctic expedition, and various independent voyages or research parties under British auspices.

Argentina and Chile, both now strongly pressing territorial claims in Antarctica will be even more significantly attested by international whaling activities in the 1949-50 season.

Argentina, Chile, Japan, The Netherlands, Norway, the Union of South Africa, Soviet Russia and the United Kingdom all shared in the 1948-49 catch. Their ships and whale factories presumably will be back in Antarctic waters next year.

Soviet Russia has engaged in Antarctic whaling activities during the past three seasons. In the same period it has re-publicized claims in the Antarctic dating back to the expedition of Adm. Bellinshausen in 1819-21.

Japanese Interested
Resumption of whaling by the Japanese, although authorized on economic grounds, tends to arouse political interest because of a Japanese expedition earlier in this century.

Of pre-war rivals in the Antarctic, only the Germans now are inactive.

The joint Norwegian-British-Swedish scientific expedition, according to last available information here, will operate within Queen Maude Land, in a sector which was claimed by Norway in 1939.

The expedition is expected to depart for the Antarctic in November, 1949, and will maintain winter stations until January, 1952. Activities will emphasize geology and meteorology.

French Revive Claim
The French Antarctic expedition, according to report, will try to establish a meteorological station on the coast of Adelle Land, which was claimed by the French government in 1938. Objectives are reported to be scientific, with about 56 explorers and scientists among the personnel.

British activities in 1950 are expected to include routine visits and scientific research at five small meteorological bases which are maintained in the Falkland Island dependencies.

Australian activity in the Antarctic also has been indicated.

HOLLYWOOD — Exclusively yours: No flying bras, please!

The censors did a double take. The scene was in "Young Man With a Horn." Kirk Douglas was playing a trumpet in a burlesque house orchestra. Suddenly a bra comes flying through the air and lands on Kirk's head. He tosses it off and goes right on playing.

Big laugh. But the censors said no, no, no. They shot the scene but substituted a fan for the bra. The censors said that was all right.

I could happen only in Hollywood:

Gorgeous George, the wrestler, insisted on a brunette or red-haired leading lady for "Pardon My Toe Hold" so as not to detract from his own blond curls. Barbara Fuller, a blonde who got the part, became a red-head to keep George happy.

MITCHUM TURNS 'CAREFREE'
BOB MITCHUM was playing with an electric train, and daintily sprinkling snowflakes over a railroad station sign reading "Palm Beach, Florida." Two dozen kids squealed with delight.

Mitch was slightly out of character and looked it. It's the opening shot for "Christmas Gift," which is due for a new title. Mitch is working as a department store salesman. But he's tired after an indignant manager says: "How can you make it snow in Florida?"

Bob replies: "Because I'm from California."

Director Don Hartman, who wrote the story and is directing, explained: "This will be a care-free Mitchum along the lines of John Garfield's role in 'Four Daughters.'"

Janet Leigh is the girl. She's a war widow. Bob meets her and brings her happiness after accusing her of living with a dead man. Dramatic stuff but with touches of comedy. Like Mitchum making snow in Florida.

And it's Billy Grey's story

WONDER if it's a trend. The new head studio guard at Monogram is Clem Peoples, ex-Los Angeles county jailor. . . . Frank Sinatra will appear at a rodeo and Steve Allen is wondering: "What's he going to do—rope and hogtie a mouse?"

The timing, Jimmy Stewart thinks, was perfect. He made a big investment in an oil well drilling operation. Same mail that Someone sent the Gordon MacRae a playpen for their three children. Mrs. MacRae's thank-you note read: "Thank you for the pen. It's wonderful. I sit in it every afternoon and read and the children can't get near me."

Cowboy star Tex Ritter's wit often reminds me of the late Will Rogers. Tex was called on to sing at a society square dance at the Beverly Hills hotel and drawled: "This is the first time I've ever been to a square dance where the roof wasn't leaking."

WASHINGTON—(UP)—There's a house for sale in downtown Washington. And if you like prominent neighbors, this is your big chance.

For the structure, now occupied by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, is adjacent to the Blair house, the temporary home of President and Mrs. Truman.

If you're interested, there's only one catch. You'll have to buy two other endowment houses, too.

Asking price is $750,000.

NEW YORK—Tearful tales of garments that zip and rip may have a happy ending.

A new type of zipper claimed to be snag-proof made its debut in New York today. The closure is based on two continuous coils and is said to have several other advantages.

These are: It's lighter, more flexible, can be dyed with the tape for exact matching and has a pull tab that can be applied on either front or reverse.

At present, the zipper is being tested in custom-made and high price ready to wear. But plans are already underway for nationwide distribution in all lines.

WILLOUGHBY—Mrs. Harriet Gerten of the nearby village of Timberlake is one of the nation's few "dollar-a-year" women today.

Mrs. Gerten, village clerk of the tiny residential community accepted a cut in her salary from $125 to $1 a year last night, thus joining all the village's other officials in the "dollar-a-year" club.

The official are using the money which would go for salaries for community improvements.

Nova Scotia's History Brings Tourist Dollars

HALIFAX, N. S. — (INS) — Nova Scotia, long regarded as Canada's ocean playground, is prospering under a deluge of American dollars spent by tourists from all parts of the United States.

Trade and Industry Minister Harold Connolly says visitors from across the border accounted for nearly all of last year's $27,000,000 in tourist revenues.

Connolly told a party of American newsmen and travel agents touring the lake-dotted vacationists' paradise that he expects the total amount spent to be considerably higher this year.

Most Visitors Stay At Inns

The bulk of the summer invaders stay at inns from Yarmouth on the south of the mainland, to Cape Breton, to the north. Some of these inns are privately managed, while others are conducted by the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Nova Scotians like to think of their province as the historical beginning of America—and not without reason. One feels that he is stepping back into the 16th century when he enters the Port Royal Habitation at Lower Granville.

The huge studded oaken door, with its "Judas" peephole opening into a courtyard centering a group of buildings, emphasizes a romantic past.

Port Royal Habitation was the first permanent settlement north of the Gulf of Mexico.

In 1621, King James of Scotland granted Acadia to Sir William Alexander and named it Nova Scotia or "New Scotland" in the Royal Charter. From 1613 to 1815 Nova Scotia was a land of soldiers and warfare, a port of warships and privateers. Fighting for Nova Scotia itself lasted a century and a half. It was in turn a French or English possession.

Links Old and New

Louisbourg National Historic Park is one of the most interesting links between the old and new worlds, containing the ruins of a walled city that was twice captured by British forces.

Right now, Halifax, capital of the province, is bedecked with flags in observance of its founding in 1749. The city, seated about Citadel Hill, overlooks one of the world's finest harbors, the starting point of many American and Canadian convoys in World War II.

History records that Citadel Hill, with its squat, gray-walled stronghold, was never attacked. Ships of all nations lie at the docks and, though English to the core, the life of Halifax is distinctly cosmopolitan.

From the city's founding to the present its history has been closely knit with the finest traditions of Britain's army and navy. Kipling appropriately named it "The Warden of the North." Present-day Nova Scotians still refer to it as "The Gibraltar of the North," where the historic past mingles with the bustling present.

From Halifax to Yarmouth by way of the land of "Evangeline," immortalized in Longfellow's famous poem, there is much to captivate the traveler.

Windsor, on the Avon River, provides a study of the Bay of Fundy's remarkable tides, any where from sixteen to sixty feet. Pools here and there on the red clay-like bottom at low tide on the otherwise dry river bed mark the impressions of hulls of small vessels trapped by previous outgoing tides.

'Assignment: America'

By INEZ ROBB

NEW YORK, Aug. 16—(INS)—The Encyclopedia Britannica includes an excellent article on court fools or jesters.

I have only one quarrel to pick with the essay. It is written in the past tense. This is a completely erroneous and misleading expression, since it afflicts the general reader with the false idea that professional buffoons no longer exist.

Far from being dead, the court jester isn't even sick. As an institution, he is alive and kicking. Furthermore, he is still doing a land office business at the same old stand which was, is, and probably ever will be, on the right hand of the seats of the mighty.

All this five-percenter business in the nation's capital, with its outlay of home freezers at a time when most of us ordinary jerk citizens couldn't even get a 25-pound cake of ice put on the top of the old refrig. is much more easily understood if we will just remember that men in high places must always have their court jesters.

What tends to confuse us run-of-the-mill taxpayers is that the official buffoons no longer wear cap and bells. As long as the jesters wore motley, they knew their place and so did everybody else.

It is the fact that the merry Andrews now wear ordinary togs that gives these jesters a sense of power and tends to confuse us yokels as to their actual position and worth.

"The fool's business was to amuse his master," says the Encyclopedia Britannica (and again I quarrel only with the tense), "to excite his laughter by sharp contrast, to prevent the over-oppression of state affairs, and, in harmony with a well-known psychological present, by his liveliness at meals to assist his lord's digestion."

Excellent, say I, and a better definition of a jester's job was never writ. Let the court fool stick to his last, as hereinabove described, and I will write no more angry letters to my congressman.

A man who heads a government needs someone to "excite his laughter." A man in power requires a court fool "to prevent over-oppression of state affairs." A man in the hot seat of the mighty must laugh occasionally or blow his silk topper.

But let's have no more confusion about these Katzenjammer Kids. I herewith suggest that congress formally establish the position of court jester, with suitable salary. But I also insist that congress, in turn, provide that the official Joe Millers wear cap and bells.

"The head was shaved," continues the Encyclopedia, "the tight was motley, and the britches fought, with generally one leg different in color from the other."

"The head was covered with a garment resembling a monk's cowl, which fell over the breast and shoulders, and often bore asses' ears, and was crested with a cockscomb, with bells hung from various parts of the attire."

"The fool's bauble was a short staff bearing a ridiculous head, to which was sometimes attached an inflated bladder, by means of which sham castigations were effected. A long petticoat was also occasionally worn, but seems to have belonged rather to the idiots than to the wits."

Okay, congressmen, I will not insist on the long petticoat. But I demand that the rest of the outfit from shaved head to bladder, although I believe some of the candidates are capable of growing their own asses' ears.

I have never resented any great. I am taking his hair down with a few cronies. What I deplore is the tendency of the cronies to develop a galloping case of dementia praecox complicated by delusions of grandeur. Nor do the court jesters flourish only in Washington. I was in more than one overseas military headquarters during the late war where the species came to full flower. I mind me in particular of one clown whose sole qualification for the uniform he wore was the fact he had played bridge for 20 years with the general. He would have been a lot less pernicious in cap and bells.

Likewise the lady jesters. Put them in motley, too. And it might also be a good idea to see that they can neither read nor write and nourish no literary ambitions.

Clowns in motley, yes. But leave us have no more clowns in clover.

Who says what gasoline should cost?

You do, of course.

You always have—and let's hope you always will.

You and the other two million owners of motor vehicles in Ohio decide what price you will pay, who among the more than 500 Ohio oil companies you will buy from and in what quantities.

Gasoline-selling is almost as much a "public auction" as if all the car owners of the state met at one place and bid against each other.

Naturally, we'd like to get the best price for gasoline we can. And we don't blame you for wanting to pay as little as you can. But it stands to reason that the public, not the oil companies, decides what the price shall be—otherwise, how could it be so low?

There are more than 19,000 service stations and more than 500 individual oil companies of all sizes doing business in Ohio, a great many of them selling well-known brands of petroleum products.

Some people make the mistake of thinking gasoline prices are arrived at by rubbing a lamp and getting the answer. Others think they are fixed by the companies doing business. Actually, they are a result of companies bidding for your business and you making the choice.

It's a free market like this—a free choice like this—that lets American business offer the best values in the world. "Freedom"—our kind of freedom—isn't just an ideal.... it is a practical, working thing that makes this the finest place in the world to live. Next time we look at the price of gasoline, let's not just be glad it costs so little.... let's be glad in knowing we have a hand in saying what the price shall be.

MAHONING FAIR SCHEDULE SET

Free admission at the gates and into the grandstand Thursday morning and afternoon, Sept. 1, for all children of school age, will be Mahoning county fair's salute to youth, as the 103rd annual exhibition gets under way at Canfield.

A record crowd of youngsters is predicted to enjoy the reduced prices of all concessions.

A new and up-to-date 4-H club exhibition hall, to be dedicated on Thursday afternoon, provides the facilities for the display of 4-H club projects and activities. The new building has been erected in the southern section of the fairgrounds in the area once encircled by the old race track. Constructed at a cost of $35,000, the modern exhibition hall will release the two buildings formerly occupied by 4-H clubbers, for additional concessions.

The main feature of the day will be the demonstration and judging of 4-H club activities with the dedication of the new club building at 1 p. m. T. R. Ferguson, director of agricultural extension of Ohio State university, and other state and county directors, leaders and advisors, will be present.

One of the big events of "Youth day" will be the sale at public auction of 35 4-H club steers, scheduled to go under the hammer at 8 p. m. in the coliseum. Col. Howard Sinclair will be the auctioneer and M. Rudibaugh, ringmaster. 4-H clubbers have been grooming their steers for this big moment for many months.

The evening grandstand show, planned with the interests of the children in mind, will present the White Horse Farm revue, known throughout the country for its clever animal acts.

Also of interest in the five-day fair is the pony show, said to be the largest at any fair in the state.

The pony pulling contest on Thursday is one of the high spots of the pig iron derby, a major attraction at the fair.

The All-County High school band, consisting of some 300 high school musicians, will play on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 4.

In considering the interests of youngsters, the Mahoning County Fair board is maintaining a tradition that has been carried out ever since the first premium list for Juniors was posted in 1933, when competition was opened to all boys and girls under 14 years of age.

Egg Ruse Fails To Fool Alert Cashier

CHICAGO — Mrs. Margaret Peters, cashier in a currency exchange, curbed her courtesy and saved $7,000.

A man dropped a bag of eggs on the floor of the exchange. He asked Mrs. Peters for a mop.

Mop in hand, Mrs. Peters prepared to open the door of her bullet-proof cage. Then she saw the man had been joined by a confederate.

She pushed a button, touching off a jangling holdup alarm and the two men fled.

Making Nature Smile

WALHALLA, S. C.—Etta Jackson, 53, told Judge G. B. Greene in general sessions court that she buried jars of moonshine, whiskey among her flowers to make them grow better.

She said the contraband booze made all her flowers more brilliant, "especially the sunflower."

Judge Greene declined to take issue on the flower-growing question but gave her a one-year suspended sentence for having 12 half-gallon jars of unstamped joy-juice buried among her posies.

Guidance Center Helps Fit Students Into Proper Job

CHICAGO—(INS)—You may be happy in your work and pleased with your occupational niche, but the fellow at the desk or machine next to you almost certainly is not.

For it's the opinion of Robert C. Woellner, University of Chicago professor, that half of all adults definitely are misplaced or could have been better placed if modern vocational methods had been available during their formative years.

Woellner attributes much of the present social unrest, high divorce rate, low birth rate and high incidence of mental illness in the United States to the many unfortunate occupational choices of its breadwinners.

Woellner is director of the university's occupational guidance and placement center, one of the first in any American college established in 1927 to help students to avoid becoming round pegs in square holes in later life. Its facilities have been used since the war to counsel thousands of ex-GIs prior to their studying a trade or profession at government expense.

Schools Give Occupational Help
Persons over 30 with family responsibilities obviously have little opportunity to shift to work that is more compatible with their energy, ability and interest, Woellner admits. He does hold out great hope that coming generations of breadwinners will be a happier lot, due to rapidly increasing emphasis on occupational guidance in schools throughout the country. Woellner says:

"In working with the veterans who are in our midst for only a few days our job is to make sure their goals are founded on genuine interest and potential ability, not romantic or social prestige notions, both of which are responsible for vast overcrowding in certain occupations."

"You'd be surprised at the number of ex-servicemen sent to us for testing and counseling who want to be musicians, radio announcers, photographers, artists, actors and writers, or, at the skilled trade level, television experts, and refrigeration or air conditioning engineers."
"Often we find after interviewing and testing an aspirant to a writing career, for example, that his technical ability is sound but his creative ability nil. In such a case we recommend his studying to earn a living at work that is in demand—teaching, for instance. The writing ambition may then be purchased as an avocation."

Few Tests Tell Story

Although the U. of C. uses approximately 100 different tests for aiding individuals in their occupational and educational problems, usually no one person need take more than a dozen. Typically, a battery of six or seven tests is given.
The customary procedure is this: After a preliminary interview with a counselor, a person's "profile" is discovered through standardized tests of his interests, ability to learn, specific aptitudes and personality traits. With profile sheet in hand the counselor has a longer and more intimate talk with a subject.

PACING PETER PIPER—Peter Piper can now pick a peck of pickles perfectly painlessly per chance he performs in the pickle pastures of Clinton Carter's farm near Motville, Mich. Carter devised the gadget above to ease the usual backbreaking task of pickle-cuke picking. Stripped down 1935 autos carry outriggers on which pickers sit in comfort as they work. Cars, which travel a quarter mile per hour and require no drivers, steer themselves between rows in the 40-acre field.

Together they try to reach the right conclusion, a product of the counselor's experience and judgment, the subject's common sense, and the test results. If considerable uncertainty still exists the subject may be given one or more specialized tests which serve to focus the spotlight even more clearly on his particular skills and interests.

"As in all things involving the mysteries of human personality and ability, hard and fast judgments seldom can be made as to a person's future course," said Woellner. "The counselor's role is principally to aid the individual to arrive at his own conclusions regarding his educational or vocational program."

In the case of would-be writers, he said that long experience in vocational guidance indicates that success is open to no more than perhaps one person in fifty. At least nine out of ten who want to make a living as a photographer are more likely to succeed in a related occupation like drafting, printing and lithograph, or industrial designing.

Opportunities for youth are still abundant in teaching—especially at the elementary school level—in selling, and in working as automobile mechanics.

TONIA, Mich.—Lloyd Edgett and William Clark spend considerable time in the state reformatory here. When they were paroled, they stole a car and drove back to get a look at the outside. Now, they're looking at the inside again.

RESCUED—American aviatrix Ruth Nichols was one of 49 persons rescued from a DC-4 airliner which overshot Shannon Airport and crash-landed in the sea off the Irish coast. Miss Nichols was serving as a stewardess aboard the plane, which was bound from Rome, Italy, to Caracas, Venezuela. At least seven persons were killed and two were reported missing in the crash.

Woman Department Store Sleuth Finds Work Hard, But Fascinating

OMAHA, Neb. — (UP) — A handsome, middle-aged woman prowls a large department store here like an inveterate bargain-hunter.

Her gentle fingers explore the texture of the goods, but her restless eyes never leave the customers around her. She only pretends to buy. She is the house detective.

A soft-spoken woman with an infectious smile, she introduces herself only as Mrs. Jones, for obvious reasons. She is a tireless walker, never leaving the store. Her lunch often is interrupted by an urgent call for help.

"There's no rest for the house detective," she said, "lost charge plates, lost children, even lost husbands—they're all our responsibility."

Of course most of her trouble is caused by shoplifters, ranging in age from children whose parents teach them to steal to one 72-year-old woman. They try to make off with anything they can, from small jewelry to pairs of shoes and even two-pants suits.

Mrs. Jones carries no means of protection. She tries never to make an arrest in the store. Neither does she nab a suspect unless she herself has seen him take something.

"I ask them to come along quietly," she said, "and most of them do."

There are exceptions. One man held her in a revolving door until she was rescued by a floor walker. She caught another only by tripping him on the stairs and holding him by the leg until help arrived.

She broke her wrist in one arrest. "But I held onto my man," she smiled grimly. "He got two years."

Mrs. Jones admits that her work develops a very suspicious nature, but she insists it doesn't extend to her home life. She has been married 31 years, "and to one man," she said proudly. She has been in the business seven years and has had many unusual experiences. But the strangest was that of the beautiful young woman who stole a $500 fur coat. Mrs. Jones caught her, only to discover that "she" was a 26-year-old man who had been masquerading as a woman for years.

LIGHT BULB MAN LOOKS FOR PLACE TO HOUSE LAMPS

By HOWARD C. ALEXANDER
DETROIT — (UP)—Charles B. Sero, champion bulb snatcher, has 20,000 bulbs and no place to keep them.

"I've been collecting these bulbs for 46 years," he said. "But don't get me wrong; I don't want my own museum."

Sero wants to put his bulbs in an Edison Palace of Light, where each could be displayed individually with the name of the inventor, the materials used, and a complete explanation of the bulb.

"I want the collection to be used in an educational way," he said. "I want them set up so they can be useful to anyone interested in electronics."

The bulbs that still burn, Sero said, could be operated by push buttons on stepped-down current. Sero has every conceivable size and type of bulb in his collection from tiny surgical "grain of wheat" lamps to a huge, 400-watt high intensity lamp built experimentally for the torch of the Statue of Liberty.

"Some people spend their lives making money, and when they die, everyone fights for it. I spent my life collecting bulbs," Sero said, proudly. "When I'm gone, I'll leave something valuable."

Sero would like to have his Palace of Light in Detroit because he is a third-generation Detroiters. But, he said, unless the Motor City wakes up and offers a building, he'll be forced to take his collection to some other city.

He gets many of his bulbs through the mail from people who have heard about his collection. Others, the bulb snatcher gets himself.

"When I see a bulb I'd like, I simply ask for it," he said. "And I have never been turned down." His collection includes a bulb from the battleship Maine which was sunk in 1898; one from the bomb bay of the Enola Gay, the plane that dropped the bomb on Hiroshima, and the dial light from Heinrich Himmler's radio.

"Perhaps my strangest bulb," he said, "is an ordinary 25-watt electric bulb. It killed a cow and was found burning in the cow's mouth."

The collection keeps growing and the bigger it gets the more anxious Sero is for a building. He said he spends more time trying to find some place to keep them than he does in taking care of them.

FBI LISTS SIX AS PUBLIC ENEMIES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 17.—(UP)—Who is Public Enemy No. 1? The FBI isn't saying. But the agency listed six men who are in there trying.

The criminal who previously held top spot on the FBI's wanted list is Earl David Birchm. He was picked up Sunday in Louisville, Ky., and charged with murder of a policeman, in addition to his previous record of jail breaks and robberies.

Without picking a favorite, an FBI spokesman said the federal men would be especially pleased to track down these six men:

Harry Lawrence Goslee, Conshohocken, Pa.—Issuing worthless checks, swindling, petty larceny and impersonating a federal officer.

Charles Gene Drossner, San Francisco—Forgery in this country and various crimes in Italy, France and Austria.

Orba Elmer Jackson, Barry County, Mo.—Auto theft, grand larceny and armed robbery. Considered dangerous.

Morris Guralnick, New York—Threatening to kill and assault. Considered dangerous and may be armed.

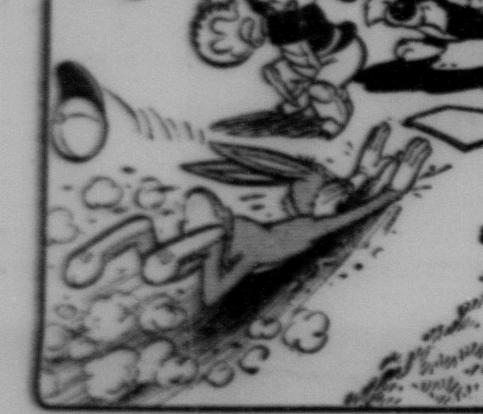

Henry Randolph Mitchell, Lexington, Ky.—Grand larceny, violation of narcotics laws, breaking and entering, and forgery. Considered dangerous and believed to be armed.

Morley Vernon King, Wheeling, W. Va.—Fled California to avoid prosecution for murder. Armed and dangerous.

Killed in Crib
TROY, O., Aug. 16.—Diane Irene Puffer, three-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Puffer of Quincy, died yesterday in Troy's Stouder hospital of a fractured skull and fractured back.

The infant's crib was overturned by a truck while the baby slept under a shade tree at the Miami county fair.

How To Get Along With Your Boss Explained

CHICAGO — There are five "musts" for getting along with your boss, according to Dr. Lester F. Miles in the current Coronet Magazine. They are:

1. Accept the situation that you are an employee. Your superiors expect of you what you expect of the people under your supervision.
2. Avoid direct challenges. Let your superior see that you respect his position and accept his authority.
3. Don't expect praise from your boss.
4. Don't be a reformer. Find out how your boss likes the work done and try to fit into his way of doing things.
5. Play the game. The back-alley politician cannot command the respect of a good superior.

Weekend London-to-New York Flight Produces Air Luxury

NEW YORK—(NEA)—At long last commercial aviation has produced a commodity it has been talking about for years—luxury in the air.

Pan American's new "President" weekend service between New York and London, in a specially-equipped two-deck Boeing Strato-cruiser, is the first air service that competes with the luxury of a crack railroad train or, considering the time and space elements, with that of a moderately good ocean liner.

From the beginning, the airlines have tried to sell the idea of luxury. But the thousands of confirmed air travelers who use planes do so for one or both of two reasons—speed in getting somewhere, or the economy that such speed makes possible. Luxury never has entered in.

The "President" service offers that speed and economy, since the fare bonus across the Atlantic is only $10 on top of regular charges. The Strato-cruiser, with light load, has flown non-stop from New York to London in nine hours 46 minutes.

With a full load, on the passenger preview flight, it flew non-stop to Shannon in 10 hours nine minutes, stopped to permit breakfast, and then made London in an hour and 53 minutes more. Taking off from Idlewild at six in the evening, passengers were in their London hotels in time for lunch.

Coming back, with time changes in its favor, the Strato-cruiser left London in late evening and landed passengers at New York about 8:30, after a single stop at Gander, N. F., in time for almost a full day's work.

This was faster time than any other commercial plane can make under similar conditions, but comfort featured the trip much more than did the added speed.

The Strato-cruiser is big enough to be steady and quiet. Its cabin is pressurized for 3000 feet. It is big enough so that one can relieve boredom by walking around, or even climbing up and down the stairway between the two decks.

The "President's" seats are spaced from 53 to 57 inches apart, instead of the 40 inches normal on a long-range plane. Those additional 13 to 17 inches permit the seats to recline further, for rest, and there are leg-rests that make the seats at night into "sleepers," with a curtain cutting off the aisle.

For an extra $25 each there are 13 genuine berths in the main cabin, all uppers. Forward of the main cabin are two "honeymoon suites," like railroad pullman sections, in which the day seats make up for the lower berth, and there is also an upper berth to let down at night.

For a maximum of 53 passengers there are five attendants. You can order a cocktail, highball or non-alcoholic refreshments at will. You can have breakfast in bed. A seven-course dinner, with choice for each course, is served one item at a time instead of all together on a tray. It starts with cocktails, includes vintage champagne and winds up with liqueurs.

This is a far cry from the close quarters and limited service available even on the best planes prior to the Strato-cruiser. It is a far cry, too, from what Pan American wanted—and still would like—to offer as an alternative for those who must travel cheaply or stay at home.

The standard New York to London fare now is $350 one way, $630 round trip. Pan American wanted permission to cut this on new Boeings, for "coach type" service, to $225 one way, or $405 round trip. The Civil Aeronautics board, however, prefers to raise the "in season" fare to $375, less 10 per cent on round trips; and cut the "off-season" fare only to $335 one way, $502.50 round trip.

That would be almost as high a charge for "in season" travel sitting up in a 75-passenger Boeing, with ordinary service, as Pan American makes in the President for luxury service—including a sleep-in-your-pajamas berth.

Pan American has the idea there are two types of air passengers—the few who want luxury and can pay for it at "President" rates, and the many who can travel only if cost is cut to rock bottom. Up to now, air service has not catered to either. It has been too costly for the masses, too unluxurious for the classes.

The "President" service is designed to please those with money to finance maximum comfort. Coach-type transoceanic travel, at relatively small cost, must wait until other airlines, the CAB.

Boyle's Column

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK —(AP)—The way to success in Tin Pan Alley today is as wide open as a closed door.

"But it is usually an amateur songwriter's own fault if he finds the door is closed," argues Lou Levy, president of Leeds Music company and manager of the Andrews Sisters.

"He doesn't dig hard enough. The song writing game is like any other game. You get ahead by hard work.

"But the amateur won't keep polishing his product. If he'd even take the trouble to dream up a great title for his song, he'd be half-way home.

"And anyone who gets one good song hit will find every door in tin pan alley will open up to him. We have too many writers now who are second rate."

The statistics are a little depressing to anyone who just wants to write his nation's songs—and practically everyone seems to want to.

"Nine out of every ten people have tried to write a song," said Levy. "Every year 85,000 new songs are copyrighted."

And what happens to them?

"Only about 5,000 of the 85,000 are even glanced at by publishers," said Levy, "and of this 5,000 perhaps only 2,000 are actually played and listened to. There's gold in song writing but it doesn't come easy."

Levy said too many young writers make the mistake of coming directly to New York to try to peddle their unpublished songs.

"To put a song over is a feat in itself. The best way for an amateur to get his song started is to get it aired over his hometown radio station.

"Instead of spending $80 to come here himself from Akron, O., he ought to use the money to have a band make a recording of his song. He needs a professional demonstration of his creation."

Levy, now 38, started his music publishing firm ten years ago with $50 and a single song copyright. Today his firm controls some 17,000 copyrights. And Lou is buying up more right along.

"I think they're a better investment than diamonds or old masters," he said.

"When you buy a new song you're never sure of what you've got. But if an old song made money once it can do it again. A good song never dies. It comes back every 14 years."

Once Levy bought a small music firm just to get the copyright on a single song—"Piccolo Pete."

"But I made my money back because the number on the other side was 'Heartaches,' one of the hit revivals last year," he said.

Lou, a former vaudeville dancer, is as adept at picking talent as song hits. In a decade as

Young Warrior, 12, Does Good Job As Patriot In Java

By ARNOLD C. BRACKMAN

JOGJAKARTA, Indonesia — (UP) — Indonesian guerrillas come in all shapes, sizes and ages. A good example is Noto Wardani, a 12-year-old warrior who entered this city with the republican army after a hectic seven-month career as a guerrilla.

He was hit three times by bullets and taken prisoner twice. He escaped once.

United Nations military observers have dubbed him "Bobby Breen" and the name apparently is going to stick, although he admits he cannot sing a note.

"But I can play a harmonica if it will help," he said.

Bobby was in fifth grade at school when the Dutch army launched its surprise parachute attack last December.

Goes With Brother

When his 30-year-old brother, a republican army commander, evacuated Jogjakarta with the retreating Indonesians, Bobby joined him, more in the role of mascot than fighter.

Then he proceeded to surprise everyone.

While on a courier mission within the capital, he opened fire with an automatic on Dutch sentries guarding the power station. The Dutch seized him and imprisoned him for 22 days.

He engineered a daylight prison break while on a work patrol.

Rejoining guerrillas entrenched around their city, Bobby took part in the February attack against Bantol, 10 miles south of Jogjakarta, but was wounded in the March 10 raid against Padokan, three miles south of Jogjakarta.

Shot Three Times

He was hit three times in the back by Dutch fire. Nursed back to health by his family doctor, he got back his old job of guerrilla courier.

Bobby however, ran afoul of Dutch patrols again. He was caught near Sentolo, 12 miles west of Jogjakarta, and placed under arrest on the charge of aiding the guerrillas. He was released by the Dutch three days later.

Republican army officers, in recognition of his work, "commissioned" him a "temporary private" in the army. He has no been ordered to return to school.

"If we are attacked again, I shall rejoin the guerrillas," he said.

Would Fight Again

Asked why he fought the Dutch, Bobby fingered his sub-machine gun and said, "for personal reasons and to defend my religion and country." Like almost all other Indonesians, he is a Moslem.

Asked what he would like to be when he grew up, the youthful warrior said, "A patriot."

"But aren't you one already?" he was questioned.

"Not enough," he bluntly replied.

U. S. Air Force Explores Pacific Weather Danger

FAIRBANKS, Alaska — The weather service of the U. S. Air Force has initiated dangerous nonstop flights for weather observation every other day between Eielson Air Force base near here and Yokota air base near Tokyo.

The 3,630 mile route is through some of the most adverse flying conditions in the world, and is done in Boeing superfortress bombers converted for weather-reconnaissance.

Observation along this route on the sea is known as the great circle route because it is the shortest way from the west coast of the United States to Japan. It is made because it is the "weather factory" of the western hemisphere.

It is in this Alaskan-Aleutian Island area that weather conditions are formed before they descend on Canada and then the United States.
